The diagram shows a vertical rectangular envelope. In the top-left corner, there is a small square box containing the characters '手' (te) and '切' (kiru), which together mean 'to be cut' or 'sealed'. To the right of this box, the characters '氏' (shi) and '名' (na) are stacked vertically, representing the name. Further to the right, the characters '住' (ju) and '所' (sho) are stacked vertically, representing the address. At the bottom center, the character '様' (sama) is written. To the left of '様', the characters '採用者' (saiyōsha) are written. Above '採用者', there are two arrows pointing upwards towards the '氏名' (name) area. A rounded rectangular box encloses the text '採用者本人' (saiyōsha hitori), with the '様' (sama) character positioned just below it.
